CHALLENGING THE PROFESSION

Archigram

“Design theme: disillusionment with the modernist ideals that had dominated architecture and design thinking since the early 1900s. By the 1960s modernism had hit intellectual status.”

Super Studio

“A new generation of architecture must arise with forms and spaces which seems to reject the precepts of ‘Modern’ yet in fact retains those precepts. We have chosen to by pass the decaying Bauhaus image which is an insult to functionalism. You can roll out steel – any length. You can blow up a balloon – any size. You can mould plastic – any shape. Blokes that built the Forth Bridge – they didn’t worry.”
